- Goal: Identify core values, work motivators, and life priorities
- Time: 10-12 minutes
- Psychological Framework: Schwartz Values Theory + Work Values Inventory
- Assessment Method: 10 scenario-based MCQs focusing on choices and trade-offs
- Key Insight: What drives and motivates the student at a fundamental level

STEP INTRODUCTION

Welcome Message:

💡 Step 2: Discovering What Truly Matters to You

Welcome back, {Student Name}!

In Step 1, we discovered your natural interests and strengths - that was about WHAT you enjoy doing. Now we're going deeper to understand WHY certain things matter to you.

What We're Exploring Today:

- 🏠 Your core values - What principles guide your decisions?
- 🎯 What motivates you - What makes you want to work hard?
- ⚖️ Your priorities - When forced to choose, what wins?
- ☀️ Success definitions - What would make you feel truly fulfilled?

Why This Matters for Your Career:

Two people can have the same interests but very different values. One might prioritize financial security, while another values creative freedom. Understanding YOUR values ensures you find a career path that doesn't just match your skills, but also fulfills your deeper needs.

How We'll Explore This:

I'll present real-life scenarios where you have to make choices. These aren't right or wrong - they're about discovering what feels most authentic to YOU.

Ready to uncover what drives you at your core?

Time needed: About 10 minutes of thoughtful decision-making

## ADAPTIVE SCENARIO BANK

Grade-Appropriate Scenarios:

For Grades 7-8 (Foundation Values):

Q1: Project Recognition Scenario (Achievement vs Helping Others)

Your group just won the school science competition. The teacher asks who should represent the team at the district level. What matters most to you?

- A) That I get to represent because I contributed the most original ideas
- B) That our smartest team member goes, even if it's not me, for the best results
- C) That we find a way for the whole team to be involved somehow
- D) That whoever goes will make our school proud and help other students too

Q2: Study Time Allocation (Learning vs Relationships)

You have 2 hours of free study time. Your friends invite you to hang out, but you also have an interesting book you want to read. You decide to:

- A) Join friends - relationships are more important than academic stuff right now
- B) Read the book - learning new things gives me energy and excitement
- C) Suggest friends come over so we can do both - study together then hang out
- D) Split the time - 1 hour reading, 1 hour with friends for balance

Q3: School Leadership Opportunity (Leadership vs Security)

You're offered a chance to start a new club, but it means extra responsibility and you might fail. You:

- A) Jump at the chance - leading and creating something new excites me
- B) Ask for more details about support and success rates before deciding
- C) Suggest co-leading with someone more experienced to share responsibility
- D) Politely decline - I prefer participating to leading at this stage

Q4: Weekend Activity Choice (Creativity vs Achievement)

This weekend you could either:

- A) Work on a creative project you've been excited about (art, music, writing)
- B) Study extra for an upcoming test to ensure you get the highest grade
- C) Volunteer for a cause you care about in your community
- D) Spend quality time with family doing something fun together

Q5: Reward Preference (Recognition vs Learning)

If you did something really well, what reward would make you happiest?

- A) Public recognition and praise in front of others

- B) A chance to learn something new or develop a skill further
- C) Free time to do whatever I want without responsibilities
- D) The knowledge that my effort helped someone else succeed
- ...

For Grades 9-10 (Value Priorities):

...

Q1: Stream Selection Dilemma (Security vs Passion)

You're choosing subjects for 11th grade. Your heart says one thing, but family suggests another for "better career prospects." You:

- A) Follow my passion - I'll find a way to succeed doing what I love
- B) Choose the "practical" option - security and family approval matter most
- C) Research extensively to find a middle path that satisfies both concerns
- D) Pick based on where I can make the biggest positive impact on society

Q2: Competition vs Collaboration (Achievement vs Relationships)

Your school announces both individual and team competitions in your favorite subject. You:

- A) Choose individual - I want to see how far my own abilities can take me
- B) Join the team - working together and building friendships appeals more
- C) Try to do both if possible - I want the best of both experiences
- D) Choose based on which one helps more students participate and learn

Q3: Future Work Environment (Autonomy vs Relationships)

When you imagine your ideal work situation, you see yourself:

- A) Working independently with freedom to set my own schedule and methods
- B) In a close-knit team where everyone supports each other's success
- C) In a structured environment with clear expectations and stability
- D) Leading others and making important decisions that affect outcomes

Q4: Success Definition (Achievement vs Work-Life Balance)

Your definition of a successful career would be:

- A) Reaching the top of my field and being recognized as an expert
- B) Having enough financial security to never worry about money
- C) Maintaining great relationships while doing meaningful work
- D) Having flexibility to pursue personal interests alongside work

Q5: Ethical Dilemma (Principles vs Security)

You discover your group project partner has been copying work. The teacher doesn't know, and reporting it might hurt the whole team's grade. You:

- A) Report it immediately - honesty and fairness are non-negotiable for me
  - B) Talk to the partner privately first and give them a chance to come clean
  - C) Focus on our team's success and let the partner handle their own choices
  - D) Consider the impact on everyone involved before deciding what's fairest
- ...

For Grades 11-12 (Career-Relevant Values):

Q1: College Major Decision (Learning vs Security)

You're torn between two college majors - one you're passionate about but with uncertain job prospects, another that's practical with guaranteed opportunities. You:

- A) Choose passion - I'll figure out how to make it financially viable later
- B) Choose security - I can pursue interests as hobbies while having career stability
- C) Look for interdisciplinary options that combine both interests and practicality
- D) Choose based on where I can create the most positive social impact

Q2: Internship Selection (Experience vs Compensation)

You have two internship offers: one unpaid but at your dream organization, another well-paid but in a field you're less excited about. You choose:

- A) Dream organization - the experience and connections are worth more than money
- B) Paid internship - financial independence and practical experience matter most
- C) Whichever offers the best learning opportunities for my long-term goals
- D) The one where I can contribute most meaningfully to important work

## Q3: Work Style Preference (Leadership vs Collaboration)

In group projects, you naturally:

- A) Take charge and guide the group toward the best possible outcome
- B) Focus on making sure everyone's voice is heard and included
- C) Contribute your best individual work and trust others to do the same
- D) Research thoroughly and provide data-driven recommendations to the group

## Q4: Career Priority Ranking (Multiple Values Trade-off)

If you had to rank these career aspects in order of importance:

- A) High salary and financial security come first, then other factors
- B) Work-life balance and personal fulfillment are my top priorities
- C) Opportunities for continuous learning and professional growth
- D) Making a meaningful difference in the world through my work

## Q5: Success Metrics (Achievement vs Impact)

Twenty years from now, you'd most want people to remember you for:

- A) The level of professional success and recognition you achieved
  - B) The positive impact you had on individuals you worked with
  - C) The innovative ideas or creative work you contributed to the world
  - D) The balanced, authentic life you built while staying true to your values
- ...

MANDATORY JOURNAL REFLECTION

Values-Specific Journal Prompts:

🍌 Step 2 Journal – Values & Preferences Discovery

{Student Name}, you've just made some thoughtful choices about what matters most to you!

These weren't easy questions - they required you to think deeply about your priorities. Let's reflect on what you discovered.

**What I learned about my values:**

*Consider: What themes showed up repeatedly in your choices? What surprised you about your priorities?*

[Minimum 30 words required]

**What was hardest to choose:**

*Reflect: Which scenarios made you pause? What competing values did you struggle to balance?*

[Minimum 25 words required]

**How I feel about my priorities:**

*Think about: Are you comfortable with what you discovered? Excited? Conflicted? All reactions are normal!*

[Minimum 20 words required]

**How this connects to my career future:**

*Imagine: How might these values guide your career choices? What kind of work environment would honor these values?*

[Minimum 35 words required]

*Remember: Your values might evolve as you grow - this is a snapshot of who you are right now, and that's perfectly valuable!*

...

Values-Specific Encouragement:

```python

JOURNAL_ENCOURAGEMENT = [

"Your value system shows real thoughtfulness and maturity!",

"The way you're thinking through these trade-offs shows great self-awareness.",

"It's wonderful how you're considering both personal and social factors.",

"Your authentic reflection on what matters most is exactly what we need for career planning."
